Roads Very Good; Fish Not So Good

The Carmel river and the Big and Little Sur are great attractions these days. The inauguration of the trout fishing season last Thursday found a steady stream of nimrods proceeding toward the south. The week-end, however, brought out nearly every member of the Isaac Walton tribe on the peninsula, the Carmel river banks being dotted with hopeful anglers, from a point just south of Carmel and on up the stream for thirty miles. According to returning fishermen, the waters of the river are a trifle too deep to permit of any large catches. But fishermen are always hopeful.

The road from Carmel south to Pfeiffers and the Big Sur river country is in good condition at the present time except for the last four miles which are a little rough, the touring bureau of the California State Automobile Association announces. A new grade has been built along the coast for some twelve miles south of Pfeiffers, but due to many slides it is impossible to drive more than five and one-half miles south from Pfeiffers.

The trip from Carmel to Pfeifers can easily be made in three and one-half hours by an experienced driver. The prospects for fishing in the streams in this vicinity are very good.

A lavish display of wild flowers makes this territory very beautiful at the present time.

MOTION PICTURES AT THE GOLDEN BOUGH

The motion picture showing tonight, "Passion," a European sensation under the title "Dubarry," features Pola Negri at the height of her abilities as a character and emotional screen actress. The picture was made on the Continent before the Polish star's advent to America and while she was still under her original direction, that of Lubitsch. The story is of the famous Madame Dubarry, and the picture is said never to have been surpassed by the scores of historical and period pictures of which it was the pioneer.

Next week two excellent offerings are announced. "Ruggles of Red Gap" to be shown Friday night, is one of the outstanding examples of high comedy on the screen. It is, of course, based on the hilarious story by our fellow townsman, Harry Leon Wilson.

"The Merry-Go-Round," to be shown Saturday night, was chosen by Robert Sherwood, the able motion picture editor and critic of "Life," as one of the best ten pictures of 1923, the year of its release. It is one of the photoplays that one feels impelled to see again and again. Those who have seen it and have appreciated its excellence are always curious to know where von Stroheim's work left off and Rupert Hughes' began.

On the latter subject, Edward Kuster, director of the Theatre of the Golden Bough, says: "I have exact information regarding the division of the direction in 'The Merry-Go-Round,' but I would like to see how nearly Carmel movie fans can hit it after seeing the picture. As to the merits of this photoplay, I personally regard it as one of the best of its kind. The complaint against colossal productions is not inspired by the size so much as by their stupid wastefulness. The 'Merry-Go-Round' was intelligently produced and deserves, I believe, all the lavish praise it has received."

TO CELEBRATE PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK

According to proclamation of David J. Reese, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of California, F. and A. M., the week beginning Monday, May 11, (next Monday) will be Public School Week.

Request is made that every community in California observe this occasion, and to this end arrangements have been made to hold exercises in Carmel next Wednesday night, at Arts and Crafts Hall.

Rev. Fred Sheldon, chairman of the local Masonic Club will preside. The list of speakers includes: J. H. Graves, Dr. A. E. Burton, Carmel Martin and Lorin D. Lacey.

The public is cordially invited.

City Problems Engage Trustees

The first argument at the monthly meeting of the city trustees last Monday night arose over a section of the proposed building ordinance having to do with eliminating terra cotta chimneys, but when trustee Henry P. Laurette explained the matter, trustee John B. Dennis was satisfied and all was serene again. The ordinance was given first reading on adoption by title only.

A strong protest against granting permits for stables on Junipero street between Second and Sixth avenues was read. This brought about a great deal of discussion, involving the jurisdiction of the Sanitary Board and of the board of trustees under the recently enacted zoning ordinance. Action deferred.

A report of R. H. Hoagland concerning his inspection of the manholes for the sewer now under construction was read and placed on file, and a copy thereof ordered sent to the contractors.

The request of Herbert Heron that he be permitted to extend the foundation of his building three feet under the sidewalk was granted.

Regarding the condition of the streets brought about by the sewer excavations, it seems to be assured that the contractors will eventually put the streets in good condition.

As to Dolores street, trustee Dennis expressed the opinion that that thoroughfare should be of concrete. Temporarily, Dolores street between Ocean avenue and seventh street will be resurfaced.

The report of the city clerk showed $52 collected for building permits during April. This amount trustee Larouette thought very small in view of the amount of building now going on in this city. It was suggested that under the new building ordinance this matter be carefully checked by the building inspector on the completion of each building.

PASADENA TO OPEN ITS NEW PLAYHOUSE

Pasadena will open on the 18th of this month what is regarded by some as the finest little theater in the world, its new Pasadena Community Playhouse. Its cost is a third of a million dollars. In eight years this playhouse movement has grown from obscure beginnings to a world-wide fame and has perhaps brought more publicity to Pasadena than any other single item.

The new Playhouse, which was made possible through contributions from the people of the city, is early Californian in architecture, of 820 seating capacity, with as fine stage appurtenances as are found in the largest theaters in the world. The building is of reinforced concrete throughout and is intended as a community center, as well as a community theater. There is in addition to the main auditorium a large recital hall, while around the court which is the picturesque, palm-shaded entrance to the theater, are located a number of shops.

Selection for the opening production was made from original manuscripts submitted by a hundred leading American playwrights, of "The Amethyst," a modern American comedy by Victor Mapes, who was author or co-author of such famous successes as "The Boomerang," "The Hottentot," "The New Henrietta," "Captain Barrington" and "Don Caeser's Return." Action of the four-act comedy, which is having its initial stage production at the new theater, starts in a smart Long Island atmosphere but it, like everything else, finally gets to California, ending up in the movie colony.

FLAG WEEK

Beginning May 17 the people of the United States will observe Flag Week. The United States Flag Association has launched a campaign to enroll 1,000,000 American citizens as members before the expiration of the week. The movement is actively supported by the American Legion in all cities and towns, by a liberal display along the sidewalks and on all buildings.

Eminent Pianist to Play Here Soon

One of the outstanding concert attractions of this season has been the two Piano Ensemble programs of Maier and Pattison. Both are pianists of international reputation and considered the kings of two-piano playing. While giving concerts in California Mr. Maier was so captivated by its beauty that he desired to return to spend a short spring vacation following his tour which has just closed in the east. Guy Maier has given sixty concerts during the four-months season, and has played fifteen engagements with leading orchestras in the United States. He has appeared as soloist with the Boston, Cleveland, and Detroit Symphony Orchestras this season and is already booked for the entire season of 1925 and 1926.

Carmel will have the rare opportunity of hearing this great pianist in recital on the evening of Sunday, May 31. The management of the Theatre of the Golden Bough has been fortunate in securing Guy Maier for one of his delightful programs for "Young People of All Ages."

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE PRESENTS REPORT

The report of the committee appointed at a meeting of citizens called by Mayor W. T. Kibbler on April 23 at the city hall, to consider the erection and location of public buildings was presented on Thursday night.

The report contained nothing determinative, the committee being content to present data on property available and non-available for the purposes desired.

In the general discussion which followed the reading of the report there seemed to prevail a feeling that the city hall, library and firehouse be located on the Ocean avenue and Lincoln street property owned by the city, and that block 69 (Ocean avenue between Mission and Junipero) be retained as a playground or to be the nucleus of a high school location. The urgent need for a firehouse location was emphasized.

CARMEL ARTIST HONORED

Ralph Davison Miller of this city, who is showing his pictures in Los Angeles, has had a most enthusiastic reception from artists and art lovers of the southern city.

At a reception given for Mr. and Mrs. Miller at Edward Langley's spacious new studio in Hollywood, Charles Haskell, curator of the Southwestern Museum art gallery, was one of the guests who insisted that Mr. Miller extend the time of his exhibit to give the public an opportunity to see "a rarely wonderful and vividly realistic series of Pacific Coast moods, Shakespearean in scope."

The Hollywood Citizen, in its columns, issues an invitation to "all Hollywood" to view one of Mr. Miller's "most characteristic pictures of the northern coast" which will be shown for a week while Mr. Miller is in the desert.

Opening of Summer Exhibition Series

The various exhibitions held last year in the Johan Hagemeyer studio which attracted the attention of this community and its visitors are to be continued this year.

The first of these exhibitions will afford an opportunity to view the work of ten Monterey painters. This group has been working in Monterey for several years. Their work has become known by exhibitions throughout the west, and many of them have received awards during the past year. The artists exhibiting are: C. S. Price, R. V. Howard, August Gay, Myron Oliver, Margaret Bruton, Helen Bruton, Ina Perham, Albert Barrows, D. H. Douglas, and Armin Hansen. Mr. Hansen has very kindly offered to loan one of his newest canvases for the exhibition.

The exhibition, which opens tomorrow afternoon and continues ten days, will be free to the public. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of the opportunity to see the work of this group.

FLOWERS AND FASHIONS TO DRAW THE CROWD

This afternoon and tonight at the Monterey Auditorium, the Monterey Civic Club is giving a Maytime Fete and Dance to raise money for the paving of the street in front of the House of Four Winds, which the club purchased and restored some years ago. Among the attractions are a flower show, music, numerous bazaars and dances by children. This evening there will be a fashion show and dance.

The committee appointed by the president of the club, Mrs. Robert Shaw, is as follows: Flower show, Mrs. Jane C. Todd and Mrs. Helen Wilson of Carmel; Children's dance and program, Mrs. W. E. Parker; Afternoon tea, Mrs. A. B. Guzendorfer; Fashion show, Mrs. B. Farrell; Maytime dance, Mrs. M. M. Gragg; Bazaar and white elephant sale, Mrs. J. L. Colwell; Food sale, Mrs. F. M. Minick; Candy counter, Mrs. C. B. Hinckley; Publicity, Mrs. Josephine Alves.

IMPORTED HOSE

No, ye agriculturists and ye keepers of gardens large and small. Not hose of the garden variety.

No, ye brave fire laddies. Not hose to throw H2o upon the crimson flame.

"Quick, Watson, they've guessed it—Hose for the female limbs divine."

We see no reason for the San Francisco papers to get excited because Mrs. Robert Welles Ritchie and Mrs. C. Halsted Yates of this city have gone into the business of selling hosiery.

It seems exactly the right thing to do. You'll agree if you'll inspect their imported line at Cabbages and Kings, Ltd.

COMING EVENTS

Tonight—"Passion," moving picture. Theatre of the Golden Bough.

Tonight—Three one-act plays. Arts and Crafts Theater.

Tomorrow—Opening of exhibition of Monterey painters. Ten days, 2 o'clock. Hagemeyer studio.

Wednesday, May 13—Exercises for Public School Week. Arts and Crafts Hall. Public invited.

Friday and Saturday, May 29 and 30—Theatre of the Golden Bough; Three one-act plays.

Sunday, May 31—Concert by Maier, master pianist. Theatre of the Golden Bough.

Early in June—Exhibition of paintings of Jennie V. Cannon and Mrs. Wagner at Arts and Crafts Hall.

July 2, 3, 4—Rodeo and Big Week, Salinas.

July 2, 3, 4—"Merton of the Movies." Spoken drama. Theatre of the Golden Bough.

The local Reading Circle will be resumed on Monday next. There will be a synopsis of the four readings of "Vanity Fair," already given. All interested are cordially invited.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Tomorrow, Mothers' Day, will be observed at the Carmel Community Church, and all mothers are especially invited to be present at the morning service.

Construction of The Bloomin' Basement building is well under way, and its unique character is emphasized by the vari-colored roof. L. E. Gottfried is the builder.

Summer sojourners here will include Mrs. Flora Geldert and Miss Mabel Morrell. The latter recently returned from China, where she has been for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Slevin returned Tuesday evening from a motor trip to Fresno, where Mr. Slevin attended the state convention of the Knights of Columbus, while Mrs. Slevin visited friends.

With the death recently of Augustin Dutra, Monterey pioneer, the last of a famous quartette of Bohemians has passed on. Robert Louis Stevenson, author; Jules Simoneau, inn keeper; Francois, baker; and Dutra, clerk of the American governor, made up this famous four.

ADVERTISERS TAKE NOTICE

A new and enlarged edition of S. A. R.'s Carmel—Its Poets and Peasants, is about to go to press. This second edition of not less than two thousand copies is intended for local supply throughout the summer, and for general circulation along the Pacific coast.

More advertising was available than the author thought advisable to insert in the first edition, and if by reason of cancellation, vacancies occur in this second and larger edition, same will be filled by suitable and proper matter submitted to the author in care of The Pine Cone Press.

Early action is needful, and applications for the limited amount of space will be cared for in the order received.

COWELL TO GIVE RECITAL

Henry Cowell and Leo Linder will be heard in Recital Tuesday, May 12, at 3:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. H. F. Dickinson at Point Carmel.

Cowell is a young mystic sage and philosopher, an interpreter rather than a creator, but an interpreter so transcendental in his scope that he must needs create a new technique to convey it. This he has done.

One listens entranced to the tales of the Irish Myths, and shivers estatically when "The Voice of Lir" thunders out his unfinished message. When the God of Motion as heard in "The Tides of Manaunaun" sends out tremendous tides and rythmically moves the particles, which the Gods would later make into suns or worlds. "The Harp of Life" played upon by the miythical dagger, reveals the mysteries of Heaven and Hell. Humor, too, plays a part in Cowell's compositions. A scene in a china shop being in oriental colors and fragrant with incense. Two friends engaged in high-pitched amiable conversation. They wax enthusiastic, excited, shrill. A customer enters. The conversation ceases abruptly. It is a vivid "pen picture" in music.

Henry Cowell is original, bold and ultra-modern in his methods.

Don't fail to enjoy him. And to add to the enjoyment, Leo Linder, violinist, who has met with successes in Munich and New York, will play some of Cowell's compositions and also some of his own selections.

You will be assured of an afternoon of thrills.—I. J. W.

BUSINESS NOTES

Ground was broken this week for the building of the Seven Arts on Ocean Avenue at Lincoln, with stores and studios upstairs. The building is to be of Thermotite construction. Percy Parkes, being the lowest bidder, is the builder, and A. B. Coates the architect.

John D. Holt, nephew of J. W. Hand, who has been attending to his uncle's insurance business for the past year, has purchased the insurance and real estate business of Richard W. Johnson. Mr. Holt will conduct the combined insurances businesses at the office of the Carmel Investment Co., beginning June first.

Church Life and Ceremony in Old Mexico

By Tilly Polak

Good Friday in the Church of the Virgin of Guadaloupe in Juarez.

When I entered the church hundreds and hundreds of Mexican men and women were filling the edifice. I took a place near the entrance so I could escape in time of need, thinking this necessary when I saw that the Indians were in the early state of ecstasy and I did not know what could happen—anything might.

At my left was a door, behind which mysterious things seemed to be going on, and all eyes were fixed upon the entrance. After twenty minutes the door was opened and about thirty Indians appeared, all dressed in the uniform of Roman soldiers, their faces covered with the visor of their helmets. In the center of the group was an Indian clad in a white robe, his eyes covered by a pair of large old-fashioned dust-glasses, similar to those worn in the first period of the automobile. What part he acted was not apparent. Then came on a large float, carried by about twelve Indians, the life-size figure of Christ, bearing the cross.

Accompanied by the weirdest music I ever heard, the procession started towards the altar where the image of the Virgin was waiting. They were enacting the thirteen stations of the cross. After passing three times I began to get a feeling of attending a theatrical performance rehearsal. The altar, which was free of its usual decorations, was the spot upon which the crucification would take place, and while the procession and service continued, men in overalls were working hard to set the stage. The background was formed by a large curtain upon which, in bright yellow and red, Calvary was painted. Ladders were carried up and down, and the whole affair appeared like the preparation for a dress rehearsal.

At the fourth visitation, the Christ-figure was lowered by a little boy, giving the impression of a fallen figure, and meeting the Virgin, she bent over and kissed the Christ face. At that a low murmer of ecstacy and adoration went through the crowd, followed by a spontaneous making of the sign of the cross by all in the church.

In the meantime the stage was made ready, and two men, representing the two thieves who were crucified with Christ ascended to the altar. They were placed on a platform and their hands folded backwards around the cross to give the impression that they were hung there. Later on I heard they stayed there the whole day while the service lasted. I never saw anything more realistic and ghastly as that, and I went out in the bright sunlight where I philosophized on religion and humanity.

The religion of the Mexicans now is a mix-up between their own Aztec belief and Catholicism, and when one witnesses a service such as this, one realizes how much of the old mysticism is still left.

During Holy Week the priests in many towns turn the churches absolutely over to the natives. They come from all parts of the country and camp about the church, where they live and cook and sleep as at home. They give their weird dances in the churches and feel free to go back to their own old customs.

To us, who have been trained in another way, it seems strange to observe how the natives regard their churches. A church is much more home to them than to us. They come there with their entire family and while father and mother are kneeling before their especially favored Virgin, the children are playing with toys or pulling each other's hair. When too noisy the mother stops her prayers for the nonce and gives them a scolding, after which she continues. A woman scrubbing the floor while the service is going on has to stop from time to time for people who have to pass when they are shuffling on their knees, lighted candles in both hands, toward the altar. It all is so much more homelike and friendly than with us, because the churches and religion is so strongly woven into their daily lives that they have become a part of it.

The open space in front of the churches looks more like a market place than the entrance to a sacred building. They sell fruit, cookies, candy, rosaries, paper flowers and all manner of cheap silver trinkets to decorate the gown of the beloved Virgin. Palm Sunday, in Mexico, they were selling lovely little palm leaves, which were bought for a couple of centavos, and which had to be blessed by the priest, every one of them. And that day especially I thought the large Cathedral in Mexico City looked lovely and friendly with these thousands of devoted people, palm leaves in hand, awaiting the blessing of the priest, the women attired in dark dresses, black shawls around their heads, and now and then as a light spot in the painting a rose-colored dress of a young girl. Grown up, but always children.

The third game of last week's triple bill in the Abalone League furnished the thrills for the whole afternoon. It resulted in an 8 to 7 win for the Sox over the Pups, but in order to check the last inning rally of the enemy the Sox outfit had to head off the tying run at the plate. Two runs in arrears, and with men on second and third, Doc Teaby, leader of the Puppies in the absence of Eddie Burns, singled cleanly to left. The runner on third scored easily but Schoell's throw from left beat By Ford to the plate by inches.

The opening tilt was an easy victory for the Reds over the Tigers and in the second set-to of the afternoon the Shamrocks massacred the Pirates. George Ball, getting into the game as substitute pitcher for the Reds, did a workmanlike job, holding the Tigers to ten safeties and getting credit for six strike outs. It was a big afternoon for George as he later led the Sox to their second victory in the absence of Captain Peg Gottfried. A feature of the afternoon was Dooley Stoney's catch of hard hit fly, taking it over his shoulder in deep center. Joe Hooper, Shamrock first baseman, pulled one out of the air with one hand in the approved big league manner.

Next week the games go on in the following order: Sox vs. Reds, Pirates vs. Pups, Shamrocks vs. Tigers.

VIOLINIST TO BUILD HERE

Sr. Antonio De Grassi, the violin virtuoso and composer motored down from his home in Berkeley on Saturday last and spent the week-end with Attorney Geo. H. Richarson in the Richardson log cabin on Monte Verde near Fifth street. Sr. De Grassi was accompanied by Tolia Poppa, the little nine year old Russian violinist who is De Grassi's protege, and who has been making quite a sensation in the bay cities with his playing. The De Grassis have bought at the corner of Twelfth and Casanova and expect shortly to build there.

ART AND ARTISTS

J. Edward Walker, an artist who formerly resided here, is exhibiting at the Berkeley League of Fine Arts.

San Francisco art lovers are interested just now in the exhibition of paintings by the Spanish artist, Hermangildo Camarasa, at the Palace of the Legion of Honor.

Where it will end, no one knows. The removal of the three nudes from the Legion of Honor Palace in San Francisco has created quite a controversy. The artists say that the dictum of the Park Commission must be obeyed.

When the new Scottish Rite Temple in San Jose is completed, not the least of its visible attractions will be sculptured figures by Joe Mora, Carmel sculptor. Two of the outstanding figures are statues of King Solomon and General Zebulon M. Pike.

In securing Mora's services the temple building committee is acting in pursuance of its policy of building permanently and as artistically as money and talent can contrive.

F. H. Flanders, C. D. Dorris, George Southwell and Mr. Eastman, all of San Jose, went on a fishing trip up the Carmel Valley last week, but nary a fish was hooked.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gordon and small daughter of Tacoma, Washington, are the week-end guests of Mr. Gordon's father, Mr. Phil K. Gordon of Carmel.

The marriage of Miss Eloy Treat, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Fred A. Treat, and Julian Phillips will take place next Thursday. Miss Treat and her mother had planned a trip to Honolulu prior to the wedding, but that plan was changed.

Miss Christine Otis who attends the State Teachers College at San Jose entertained the following classmates: Mabel Bianchini, Edith Peterson, and Lucille Davis.

Questions Regarding Investments

THERE are many questions regarding the making of investments which our Investment Department answers for the shareholders.

The best interests of our shareholders are also our interests. Often we can be of distinct service in ascertaining facts for them, in rendering advice and in helping them properly conserve their funds and securities.

Service of this kind was not contemplated when we adopted the customer ownership policy, but so many of our shareholders came to us for assistance that we have made it a part of the regular work of the Investment Department.

We realize, of course, the degree of confidence which prompts the seeking of such advice, and we employ the greatest care in responding to all requests for information, irrespective of the subjects or questions involved.

Every new shareholder added to our big family is another evidence of confidence in our organization and its ability to provide services indispensable to community growth and prosperity.

Please feel free to use the services of our Investment Department, and at the same time give us the benefit of your suggestions towards making our work satisfactory to the public.

PERRY'S MEMORIAL HONORED

MORE than ten thousand persons turned out recently at Port-of-Spain, in Trinidad to attend the dedicatory exercises of the memorial gate in honor of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, one of America's brilliant naval leaders, and hero of the memorable battle of Lake Erie, in 1813.

The illustrious admiral died at Port-of-Spain on an American warship in 1819, and was taken ashore for burial. The gateway dedicated stands at the entrance to the cemetery in which the body was buried until it was removed to the United States in 1826 and laid to rest at Newport, R. I.

The gateway is appropriately made of iron and on the supporting pillars are two bronze tablets. On one of the tablets are inscribed the famous last words of Commodore Perry:

"Few people have greater inducements to make them wish to live than I; but I am perfectly ready to go if it pleases the Almighty to take me; the debt to nature must be paid." The other tablet bears the facts of Perry's death and burial and the circumstances of the presentation of the gate by Americans living in Trinidad.

Secretary Wilbur sent the U. S. cruiser Memphis to take part in the exercises and the golden key to the gate was presented to the mayor of the city by Captain Lackey, of the Memphis.

The tribute to Commodore Perry is a fitting one, as Perry is one of the outstanding heroes of American naval history and the story of his life and accomplishments has served as an inspiration to many an American youth.

A DAY AND A WEEK

WE are on the threshold of two important occasions. Occasions that somehow seem to fit together, that have very much in common, that should arouse in us feelings of sentiment and pride and devotion.

Tomorrow is Mothers' Day. Who is there who does not give a special thought to mother whether she be here or in a higher sphere. If she be here, give her a remembrance—flowers, a book, a box of sweets, a message. Has she passed on? Then wear a flower, tell the grandchildren about her, imagine yourself a child again. God bless Mother!

Beginning next Monday, "Public School Week" will be celebrated throughout the country. We will celebrate in Carmel on Wednesday night.

The necessity for a period of special thought to our public schools is vital when we think of the insidious propaganda to destroy the school system and the further influence of bolshevism and defiance of law and the flouting of American institutions.

Mrs. Josephine Loomis is back from San Mateo to spend the summer in Carmel.

Mrs. Sydney Yard, recently returned from Europe, was the honor guest at a tea given by Mrs. Mary Coote.

Theodore Kosloff, Russian dancer and movie actor, gave us the once-over last week. He registered at Pine Inn.

Marshal Wermuth is again at the wheel of the Carmel-Monterey stage. He was in the hospital at Salinas for several weeks.

Mrs. S. A. Deming has returned from a six weeks' visit with friends in Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and the San Joaquin Valley.

Mrs. E. T. Ezekiel and two daughters were recent visitors here, occupying their cottage on Junipero street. Their home is in Sausalito.

A class in stage deportment at the Golden Bough, in addition to regular dancing classes, will be conducted this summer by Betty Merle Horst.

The work of preparing Arts and Crafts Theater for the San Leandro players was in the hands of Arthur Cyril, Bruce Monohan, Gordon Greene and David Prince.

Two sessions of a laboratory course in play production will be given at the Theatre of the Golden Bough this summer. The first two-weeks' session beginning Monday, June 1, is scheduled to accommodate University of California students who have matriculated. The second session begins on Monday, July 13, and will be available to Stanford University students. The classes are limited to fifteen.

STANTON THROWS HIS TALENTS INTO "THE CIRCLE"

There has recently entered our "Circle of Enchantment," a young builder whose homes, known elsewhere as "Stanton's Original Homes," combine originality and beauty with soundness of construction to the nth degree.

Mr. Stanton, a University man, selects as his building sites those locations he thinks will be the most desirable and exclusive in the future as well as the present time. As is the history of all growing places, the real homeseeker desires to live away from the business center with its ever-increasing numbers of automobiles, noise, traffic, fumes, smoke and dust, and selects a spot that will always be beautiful; safe from the encroachments of a city's industrial expansion.

Mr. Stanton thinks that the Peninsula, particularly Carmel, will become one of the finest and most desirable and popular residence districts in the whole of California, and he is from Hollywood at that. Coming here with the intention of sojourning for a week only, he became so enamoured with the country and its possibilities of future development, that he at once decided to continue his work here instead of in the south. He builds, not in a hap-hazard way, part Mission, Chalet or what-not, but carries out the pure architectural lines of whatever style he constructs. At present he is building two French-Norman homes, one in Pacific Grove, on Jewell avenue in the Del Monte Properties Co.'s subdivision. Here one will see a beautiful setting, over-hanging trees, a marvelous view of the bay and hills and a complete, convenient homey home.

On Monterey Heights, overlooking the world as it seems, at the end of Franklin street, another "home" is in process of construction. Every window frames a charming picture.

And in Carmel, a beautiful office building will be seen rising on the corner of Ocean avenue and Lincoln street in the next few days, which will be the new office of "Stanton's Original Homes."

Mr. Stanton invites the public at all times to inspect these structures, as he takes pride in the quality of all materials used and the skillful workmanship of the men he employs. He will have under course of construction in the next few days two more homes. These will be located in Carmel, which all goes to prove that he thinks there is a big future for us here in this incomparable spot.

Miss Arline Payne, who is a sophomore at the University of California, is spending the summer vacation with her parents in Carmel.

"SO THIS IS LONDON"

This comedy is so good that Carmelites will not mind the trip to Salinas to see it next Monday night.

The critics say that nothing funnier has ever been offered to the amusement-loving public than George M. Cohan's "So This is London," which Henry Duffy brings to the California Theater at the county seat.

Based upon the misunderstandings on the part of the British regarding Americans and the Yankees misconception of the Englishman's viewpoint, it is original in theme and treatment and altogether one of the most enjoyable plays ever written. It has been just as big a hit in Great Britain and Canada as in the United States and there is nothing whatever in it to offend the sensibilities of the citizens of any country.

Cohan always revels in funny situations and in "So This is London" the complications are of the most side-splitting sort. The dialogue is said to be witty and humorous with a delicate vein of satire permeating the whole. The offering is a study in contrasts, that afforded by the conception of the British nobility as expressed by Sir Percy Beauchamp and the American millionaire as represented by Hiram Draper, being particularly interesting and extraordinarily comical.

The cast is headed by Lawrence D'Orsay, who will be seen in the important role of Sir Percy Beauchamp, the characterization he created in the New York production. He will be remembered here as the star of "The Earl of Pawtucket." The balance of the company and production is on a par with that seen in the major cities of the country.

See you in Salinas Monday night.

Last Sunday Mrs. Mabel Gray Young informally entertained at a musicale and tea at her home on the Carmel Point where she and her mother, Mrs. J. D. Gray have been staying during May. Mrs. Laura Lewis, who sang, was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Young. Among the guests who called during the afternoon were: Mrs. William C. Watts and her guest, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Roberta Arment Leitch, Mrs. Abbie B. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. William Silva, Miss Margaret Stewart and her guest, Mrs. Louise Brown, Miss Alice McChesney, and Mrs. Laura Lewis. Mrs. Young plans to give more of these recitals while she is occupying her lovely home on the Point.

Mrs. Lois Dibrell of the Carmelita Hat Shoppe spent a few days in San Francisco on a business trip this week.
